

November 25, 2007
November 12, 2007
Luke 12:16-21

In today's Gospel message, Jesus as our loving yet honest Father warns us about greed and the inherent dangers it poses to our souls. When we care about material and earthly things we lose focus of loving others and by extension God. We become selfish by not sharing our good fortune with others--trying to make the lives of less fortunate people better and most fulfilling. This is what God expects of us. The Evil One says take care of yourself only, and usually that's what we do. In the final analysis our good works are the only things which will follow us after death. The Last Judgment testifies this fact; and is crystal clear about the ramifications that will result by either our faith or lack of such. Let us examine our lives and focus on the things that matter most to God.