

October 7, 2007
September 24, 2007
Luke 6: 31-36

In this gospel message, Jesus cuts to the heart of the matter--what it truly means to be a Christian--doing the Godlike above what our natural human instincts tell us to. He gives us some examples which are quite powerful. As is the case we have to steer away from sin and towards God. Love our enemies, do good to them, lend without expecting repayment; Boy! These are radical ideals. Yes! They are. This is what's expected of us and what is more important most pleasing to God. Our eternal reward is to be called sons of the Most High; truly by His grace. Let's strive for these most noble virtues the Church gives us this Sunday.